Kumar Chandran, MS, MPH is a Nutrition Policy Advocate with California Food Policy Advocates. His work focuses mainly on advocating for policies to improve and expand the federal nutrition programs for low-income people in California. CFPA works on policies to ensure that low-income people not only have enough to eat but that those foods are healthy and nutritious. Kumar's work concentrates on the child nutrition programs, such as school lunch and breakfast as well as child care nutrition. Prior to his time at CFPA, Kumar was pursuing his graduate studies in public health and nutrition policy at Tufts University.
